

500GB of Data Processed in 2 Months – A Full 6 Months Ahead of Schedule

Three and a half million emails and their attachments. It was more ESI than the Plaintiff and their major litigation support vendor could manage in the court-ordered time frame. They were unable to meet deadlines for processing and production and were uncertain how they might address the challenge of defensibly processing over 500GB of data against such an aggressive schedule.

When the Plaintiff requested our assistance, Edox was already a vendor for the Defendant. After signing multiple confidentiality agreements, we initiated processing for the Plaintiff – and, the job was done, with the most unforgiving standards fully met. In fact, the judge was so impressed with the work Edox completed that she instructed the Plaintiff to send us other data sets for processing.

How did we complete this project in 25% of the time quoted by the original vendor? We received the data on a rolling basis and used both superior technology and outstanding project management to process millions of emails and their attachments. Our team and their talents are our greatest resource, a fact underscored by the outstanding results we achieved in this case.

Edox showed that the Defendant's requested production timelines were reasonable, and the Plaintiff saved massive amounts of time and associated dollars while hitting critical deadlines. This was a dual victory: we were able to provide information to all relevant parties on time and to do so as a high-performing, neutral party.
